Discover The Worst Kept Secret To A Perfect Gravel Driveway

When arriving at a property the driveway is the first feature guests experience, so creating an exceptional first impression is key. The British tradition of elegant gravel driveways with the satisfying crunch-factor when driven or walked over is one that is desired to remain.

However, gravel surfaces have a reputation for being difficult to maintain from problems such as stone migration resulting in inconsistent coverage and unsightly weed growth. Gravelrings gravel grids from Beauxfort, specialists in distinctive landscape systems, are the worst kept secret to creating a dream gravel approach without the common pitfalls of such surfaces.

Gravelrings is made of the strongest geometric shape there is, the circle, meaning there are no weak corners that can snap or break. Even better, Gravelrings is a closed-cell system, meaning gravel locks into the cells and can't disperse to create displeasing, sparse patches that need regular raking back into place.

Easy Install

This gravel retention grid is easy and quick to install, pre-assembled in 1m2 sheets that clip together securely. That security doesn't come at the expense of flexibility, as Gravelrings is designed to follow the curves and contours of the land, perfect for sweeping, curved driveways. While, adhering to SuDs regulations, as stormwater can drain through and return to the natural water cycle.
